Cultivate an Attitude of Gratitude

(adapted from: www.mylifestages.org/health/wellness/cultivate_an_attitude_of_gratitude.page)

Feeling grateful offers numerous health benefits and can bring you greater joy and satisfaction:

What are you grateful for? If you haven't pondered that question lately, start today. Numerous scientific studies prove that regularly focusing on what you appreciate rewires your brain to counteract negativity and generates health benefits, including better sleep, happier moods and higher self-esteem.

Cultivate a thankful attitude:

Your brain is hardwired to be watchful and worried, a vigilance that helped our ancestors survive extreme living conditions. But in the modern world, this survival mechanism regularly stays in overdrive, creating unnecessary anxiety, worry and chronic stress that affects your health.

By intentionally choosing an attitude of appreciation and gratitude, you increase your capacity for appreciation and for calming your body, heart and mind. This goes beyond simply saying thanks. Gratitude is paying attention to what you have and cultivating a heartfelt sense of appreciation for it.

Bask in pleasant memories:

Rick Hanson, Ph.D., a neuropsychologist and author of Hardwiring Happiness, suggests this practice: Close your eyes, think back to a positive experience and remember everything you can about it. Relive it in your mind. Breathe in deeply, taking in the pleasantness. Then breathe out and imagine you're sending the pleasantness to every cell of your body. Repeat for four or five more breaths. Staying with the pleasant experience a little longer than usual can be very healing.

By focusing on and staying with a pleasant memory, you're rewiring your brain.

Seek the good:

When you're having a bad day, ask yourself, What's not wrong? This practice, from the Vietnamese Zen Buddhist monk Thich Nhat Hanh helps you find the good in your life even during difficult times. You may be stressed about your messy house, but you have a roof over your head and food to eat. You may be arguing with your colleague, but you have an engaging job that pays your bills. No matter the situation, stop for a minute to consider what's not wrong.

It's hard to access gratitude sometimes, what's not wrong is a bridge to gratitude. It's a way to think about positive things in your life without forcing it.

Remember three good things:

Each night before you go to sleep, think of three good things that happened that day. Write them down and spend a little time reflecting on what brought those things into your life. This classic gratitude practice helps draw attention to the positive. Plus, according to a 2011 study, spending just 15 minutes jotting down a few grateful sentiments before bed helps you sleep better and longer.

Take it with you:

Thanks to the world of apps, you can practice gratitude wherever you go. Try Gratitude! Or Live Happy on the iPhone, or the Attitude for Gratitude Journal for Android. You'll find many choices—so choose one that works for you.

Person-Centered Planning Philosophy

Archway believes in and uses the philosophy and approaches of person-centered planning. One critical way to show respect for each person's individuality is through the use of person-centered planning which focuses on first, understanding the person and then, helping the person use effective decision-making skills to guide their journey of recovery.

Person-centered planning means that we listen to you closely in order to understand what is important to you in your life. We listen to what is and isn't working for you and what you think needs to change. Workers form a helping partnership with you and work together on a plan that is meaningful to you. We help you find a main goal to work on and break it down into a few steps that will help you reach your goals.

A survey team from CARF International* will be visiting on

August 14-16 2017

We invited the surveyors to evaluate how well we meet international standards for quality. The survey will tell us what we are doing well and ways we might improve. As a result of this survey, we may earn or continue accreditation.

As part of the survey, the surveyors will interview people who receive services, their families, our staff, and others. Some questions the survey team members might ask people are:

- Do we provide a clean and safe setting?
- Do you receive the services you need and want?
- Are you treated with respect?
- Do you take part in planning your services?
- Are you told what you need to know about your services?
- Are your questions answered in a way you understand?
- Do you know where to go with questions or concerns?

Archway Station's Complaint Process

Before Using the Complaint Procedure

Remember, many times things can be worked out if people just talk things out. If you really think someone's done you wrong, try to tell the person what you're feeling. It's important to do that respectfully. It's important to be open, honest, and adult-to-adult. A beginning conversation might go something like this, "When you did _____, it made me feel _____." Sometimes it helps to practice what you're going to say. Try it!

Complaint Process

- It's meant to be quick and EASY.
- No matter what you complain about, no one will hold it against you.
- Forms are posted throughout the agency.
- Ask anyone to help support you.
- The BEST way to resolve an issue is try & talk directly with the person to work things out.
- If that's not possible, talk to your TEAM LEADER.
- The Compliance Officer will review the complaint and try to resolve things if that becomes necessary.
- If necessary, Executive Director gets INVOLVED.
- The Board's Review Committee makes FINAL decision.

*If you have any questions about this process, contact
Archway's Compliance Officer at 777-3208 Ext. 104*

Fair Housing Laws

City of Cumberland

Chapter 9 of the Cumberland Code makes it illegal to discriminate in the sale or rental of housing based on race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, familial status, or physical or mental disability. The Human Relations Commission (HRC) investigates and conciliates complaints filed under Chapter 9.

The Federal Government

The Fair Housing Amendments Act makes it illegal to discriminate in the sale or rental of housing on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, disability, or familial status. The Department of Housing and Urban Development investigates and conciliates housing complaints filed under the Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988 (FHAA). Persons who consider themselves to be victims of housing discrimination can file suit in Federal Court.

Related federal laws include:

*Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act
Americans with Disabilities Act
Equal Credit Opportunity Act*

The State of Maryland

Title 20 of the MD Annotated Code makes it illegal to discriminate on the bases of race, sex, familial status, color, national origin, age, religion, marital status, sexual orientation, genetic testing, physical and/or mental disability. The MD Commission on Human Relations investigates and conciliates complaints filed under Title 20. Real Estate Law (BOP, Section 16-526), forbids discriminatory practices by real estate brokers or agents, putting them at risk of losing their license. The Real Estate Commission enforces this law.

Fair Housing Laws

Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968, commonly known as the Fair Housing Act forbids discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin in the sale, rental or financing of housing. In 1974, discrimination on the basis of sex was added. In 1988 Congress passed the Fair Housing Amendments Act that added people with mental and physical disabilities and families with children to the list of people protected by the Act. The amended law requires many public and private owners, developers and operators of housing to change any policies and practices that exclude people with disabilities. Also, any new multi-family housing built to be occupied for the first time after March 13, 1991 must be architecturally accessible. The 1988 amendments also created a stronger enforcement system, making it easier to file a complaint and to remedy discriminatory housing practices. Chapter 9 of the City of Cumberland Code extends the above protection to persons on the bases of their source of income, sexual orientation, age and family responsibilities.

Are they Support Animals or Pets

The Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act protect the right of people with disabilities to keep emotional support animals, even when a landlord's policy explicitly prohibits pets. Because emotional support and service animals are not "pets," but rather are considered to be more like assistive aids such as wheelchairs, the law will generally require the landlord to make an exception to its "no pet" policy so that a tenant with a disability can fully use and enjoy his or her dwelling.

HUMAN RELATIONS COMMISSION CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND

FAIR HOUSING FOR PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES

How to Recognize Discriminatory
Housing Practices

WE DO BUSINESS IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE FEDERAL HOUSING LAW

Who is protected by Fair Housing Laws?

Fair Housing Laws provides protection from housing discrimination for housing applicants, tenants and buyers with any kind of disability. Whether it is a hearing or vision impairment, mental illness, physical disability, mental retardation, AIDS or HIV infection, epilepsy, cerebral palsy or any condition which substantially limits one or more major life activities. If you use a walker or a wheelchair, or have an assistive animal or a personal-care attendant, these laws protect you against housing discrimination. You're also covered if you have a record of having a mental or physical disability or if you are regarded as having a mental or physical disability.

Who must comply?

Property owners, landlords, housing managers, real estate agents, brokerage service agencies and lending institutions must comply. The Fair Housing Laws cover both privately owned housing and housing subsidized by federal funds, such as low-income public housing. Multi-family housing constructed for first occupancy after March 13, 1991 must comply with guidelines that make the complex adaptable for persons with disabilities. If the complex does not have an elevator, all first floor units must be adaptable. If there is an elevator, then all units on all floors must be built in compliance with the guidelines. Adaptable features include an accessible route from the parking to the entrance to the unit; an accessible entrance into the unit; maneuvering space throughout the unit; light switches, electric plugs and environmental controls at specified heights; usable space in the kitchen and bathroom, and reinforcements in the bathroom walls for addition of grab bars. In addition, tenants must be able to access areas of public use, such as the rental office, laundry facilities, mailboxes, and recreational facilities.

REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION

Fair Housing Laws require that housing providers make reasonable accommodations in their rules, policies, practices or services to give a person with a disability an equal opportunity to use and enjoy a dwelling unit or common space. Accommodations are "reasonable" when they're practical and feasible.

How can you get a reasonable accommodation?

You must request it. As the tenant, you have the responsibility to ask for an accommodation when it's needed.

How about assistive animals?

Any tenant who is in medical need of an assistive animal is protected even if the housing development has a "No Pets" policy.

Can you get reserved parking?

Persons with disabilities have the right to request that landlords reserve them safe and convenient parking in close proximity to their living unit.

REASONABLE MODIFICATION

When physical changes to your own unit are necessary to accommodate your disability, the housing provider must let you make them, if you pay for them yourself, as long as the changes are reasonable. The housing provider can require you to restore the premises reasonably to its original condition when you leave. If you are unable to pay for reasonable modifications that are necessary to accommodate your disability, you may ask the housing provider to provide the modifications through an interactive process.

Can you be asked about your disability?

NO! No matter why they're asked, questions about your disability are prohibited by the Fair Housing Laws. A landlord, property manager, seller or lender may not use an application form that asks if you have or have had a mental or physical disability or that seeks information about the nature or severity of your disability. You may not be asked to provide your medical records or to sign a document allowing others to see them.

What questions can you be asked?

As long as all applicants are asked the same questions, a landlord can ask for information to show that you can meet the same obligations as any other tenant, with or without a disability.

For example you can be asked:

Questions about financial information to show if you can pay the rent or mortgage.

For references about your history as a tenant.

If you are willing to comply with the building's rules about such things as sanitation and no smoking in common areas.

If you qualify for housing designated for people with a specific disability.

If you are currently using drugs illegally.

If you have been convicted of the illegal manufacture or distribution of a controlled substance.

Remember - The landlord can only ask you these questions if they are asked of all applicants. Asking these questions only of a person who has a disability violates The Fair Housing Laws!
